

1. How do you feel when you have been in this college for so many years?

I have seen many colleagues come and go. Being in this college for 10 years has given me a sense of context of where we come from, and where we aspire to be. Being in this college for many years has also allowed me to have a sense of ownership in being part of several programmes from their inception to implementation. This is something that is rewarding to me.

2. Can share with us what motivates you to keep going in this teaching journey?

What motivates me to keep going on in this teaching journey is the smiles on my students' faces when they enjoy what they are learning. Interacting with students has always been enjoyable and meaningful to me. This is something that makes going back to the classroom enjoyable day after day despite the stresses that might come as part of the job.

3. What do you want your students to achieve?

I would like my students to achieve their fullest potential, whatever that might be. In the end, what the nature of that potential looks like should not be dictated by the teacher, but should come from the students themselves through a sense of self-discovery. This is what school really is to me – an environment where self-discovery is encouraged and facilitated.
